

It is my understanding that US citizens have some sort of theoretical ownership of airwaves. Allowing a media conglomerate like Sinclair flaunt election law is an affront to all US citizens. It is an outrage that should not be tolerated.

If you are concerned about one breast being displayed at the Superbowl for half a second, you should be outraged that our fair and unbiased news reporting organizations are using our airwaves to spread lies and deception - the reach and outcome are far more dire than a mere wardrobe malfunction.
